Neighbors Magazine Founders Discuss Their History

By Casey Jarmes | The News-Review

NORTH ENGLISH – On April 27, the English Valleys History Center featured a presentation from Rhonda and C.C. Hoffman, the creators of local monthly publication Neighbors Magazine. The Hoffmans also own the Design House and Happy Hutch. Rhonda Hoffman explained that, in 2005, she moved to Sigourney to be with Sigourney native C.C. Hoffman. Rhonda, a graphic designer, wanted to work in town so she could be around for her children and began doing freelance design work. Customers repeatedly asked them if they could do print work, leading the Hoffmans to open the Design House.

“We’ve been going for about twenty years now, and it still amazes us that, in a small rural community, we were able to build a business that allowed us to raise our children, have a good quality of life, and do things for our community,” Rhonda said.

C.C. explained that, at the time, he was working as a career counselor and anthropology professor at Central College, which ended up helping when they eventually began the magazine.

Home Base Iowa Discusses Attracting Veterans

By Casey Jarmes | The News-Review

SIGOURNEY – On April 24, Zachary Nelson of Home Base Iowa, an organization that helps veterans find employment and connects them with resources in the state of Iowa, met with KCED and local veterans at Barnwired in Sigourney. Nelson stated that veterans help build communities and that Home Base Iowa’s goal is to make the state a top choice for current and former service members, by getting local governments to offer incentives like gift baskets and free hotel stays to veterans in town for job interviews. He pointed out that the state of Iowa has a $5,000 homeownership grant and reduced interest rates for veterans. Nelson stated that there are just shy of 159,000 veterans in Iowa, 65,000 of whom are employed, and that they bring $1.6 billion into the state.

Sigourney Mayor and Sigourney American Legion

Commander Jimmy Morlan asked about mental health for veterans, noting that a lot of veterans have problems functioning or molding into society, and asked if Nelson sees a lot of that. Nelson stated he did, calling veteran mental health issues a crisis. He stated that Home Base Iowa has a secluded room for veterans to get away from the noise, contact information for mental health counselors, and helps coordinate veterans with VA clinics. He stated that veterans need to be educated on what resources are available and often don't know about what is.

A veteran in attendance asked about veterans having to leave for appointments, stating that employers may not want to hire veterans. Nelson stated that is unfortunately a factor with a lot of veterans. Morlan asked if Nelson knew any veterans senators that voted against the bill in 2024. The attendee asked if Grassley was staying on the inspectors general issue. Grassley said he was, but that Biden had ignored 158 letters sent to him during his term and that it was typical for Senators to not receive responses.

An attendee raised concerns about the “dismantling of everything,” stating she knows that government programs are broken and need attention, but not all at once.
She stated she never wanted to be political, but has to now for the sake of her grandchildren and their children.

“It’s like just so chaotic, we don’t even know what to be concerned about, or which thing to address first or question...We’re so confused about what to prioritize, and it seems like it’s been intended to be that way,” said the woman. “That we’re supposed to be up in arms about everything and nothing gets done, or nothing gets addressed...We don’t have the checks and balances in place, and so anybody can do anything. They lose their jobs by the thousands, that’s not the way to operate government, and I know you know that.”

“I think you’ve got to back up on saying the checks and balances aren’t working,” said Grassley. “Every day you read in the paper about the courts saying Trump can do this, or he shouldn’t have done that, or he can do it. The courts are stepping in all the time, and they should.”

Another attendee asked if Grassley thought everything
Trump was doing was fine.
He stated that “of course” he didn’t, stating he didn’t approve of firing inspectors general or putting tariffs in place, because he believes in free trade. An attendee complained about tariffs changing from day to day, calling it ridiculous.

“Well, it’s ridiculous if it doesn’t work out, but it’s a little early to say whether or not it will work out,” said Grassley.

Grassley was asked if he had ever seen a mess like this before.

“During the last two years of the Nixon administration,” said the senator.

The woman who raised concerns about the dismantling of everything also raised concerns about the volatility Trump’s tariffs are bringing, their effect on the stock market and on the U.S.’s international relationships.

“I feel like our relationship with our allies, it’s going to take years to repair that damage...This is a world economy, you know? You can’t live in a bubble, and for years we’ve said we can’t,” she said. “And I think that we’re just stripping down relationships that I don’t know how many generations it’s going to take to build trust again...We need the steel, we need resources from other countries. We don’t rely on ourselves. And we’re not going to build factories in two years to be self reliant, and I don’t think we should. I think we need to be a global economy and help the world survive too.”

Grassley claimed that Trump had successfully sold the country on tariffs, because he received the most votes since Reagan was re-elected, both popular and electoral. This is untrue.
Trump received 77,302,580 votes in 2024, less than the 81,283,501 Biden received in 2020. The 312 electoral votes he received in 2024 are also less than the number received by both of Barack Obama campaigns, both of Bill Clinton campaigns, and George Bush’s 1988 campaign.

“He sold the country on the fact that we’ve been taken advantage of, and he’s going to make sure we aren’t taken advantage of anymore, and that’s why he’s going down this route,” continued Grass-ley. “I wish I could satisfy you that it’s going to work, because I don’t know anybody really knows it’s going to work, but he’s got Japan and India now, big economies coming to negotiate, but 100 countries indicated that they want to negotiate tariffs down. And if he’s successful in doing it, and that could be a big if, but if he is successful he’d be more successful than what we’ve been doing through the World Trade Organization.”

The News-Review brought up the imprisonment of hundreds of people, most of them Venezuelan immigrants, without trial, at CECTOT, a maximum security prison in El Salvador, at the hands of the Trump administration, who has claimed that these men are gang members.
The imprisonment of these people was justified by the Trump administration under the Alien Enemies Act, which gives the president the ability to arrest citizens of nations that are at war with the United States, despite the fact that the United States is not at war with Venezuela or any other country currently. The Trump administration has repeatedly been ordered by judges to halt the flights to El Salvador.

On March 15, District Court Judge James Boasberg ordered the U.S. government to bring back people sent to El Salvador, even if it meant turning planes around mid-air; ten minutes later, another flight containing prisoners took off, bringing more immigrants to the prison. The next morning, El Salvadoran dictator Nayib Bukele, who is being paid millions by the Trump administration to keep these prisoners, mockingly tweeted “Oopsie...

Too late,” accompanied by a laughing emoji, which was then shared by White House
Communications Director
Steven Cheung, who added a meme of Denzel Washington saying “Boom!” from the movie “Training Day,”

THE HISTORICAL VIEWPOINT

Douglas Corrigan and Transatlantic Flights

By Casey Jarmes | The News-Review

The year was 1927. The Spirit of St. Louis, piloted by Charles Lindbergh, landed at the Le Bourget Aerodrome, after spending more than thirty hours in the air. Lindbergh, barely conscious from fatigue, stepped out of his plane, having completed the first solo transatlantic flight in history. This was an agonizing feat of endurance, with Lindbergh starving himself and keeping the window open, in hopes that the hunger and the cold would keep him from drifting to sleep. He flew through thick fog, with wings covered in ice, and hallucinated that the ghosts of dead pilots who had been lost over the Atlantic were whispering to him. In spite of all this, Lindbergh completed his flight, earning him worldwide fame he would later leverage into becoming the leader of a fascist movement. This is speculation, but I think it is likely that, when Charles Lindbergh took off from an airfield in New York, he was aware that he was travelling east, over the Atlantic, towards Europe. And, if that sounds like a given, then you haven't heard the story of Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan.

Clyde Groce Corrigan was born in Texas in 1907. He later changed his name to Douglas as an adult. In 1925, when he was 18, Corrigan stumbled upon an airfield offering ten-minute sightseeing flights in a small biplane for $2.50 ($45 with inflation). Corrigan flew for the first time, falling in love with it, and began taking flying lessons at the airfield a week later. He made his first solo flight six months later.

The same year, the owners of the airfield, B.P. Mahoney and T.C. Ryan, offered Corrigan a job at Ryan Aeronautical Company, a new aircraft factory they were opening in San Diego. Soon after, Ryan Aeronautical was paid $10,000 by Charles Lindbergh to construct his famous plane. The young Corrigan assembled the Spirit of St. Louis's wings and installed its fuel tanks and instrument panel. The workers at Ryan Aeronautical cheered when news reached them that Lindbergh had touched down in Paris. Then and there, Corrigan made a vow: he too would cross the Atlantic.

Corrigan spent a few years working as a mechanic and pilot, doing stunt flights in his spare time. In 1930, he moved to the East Coast and opened his own passenger service, promoting it through barnstorming (airplane stunts). In 1933, Corrigan decided to move back to California. He bought a used Curtis Robin OX-5 monoplane for $310 ($7,500) and flew it across the country, stopping every hundred miles to sell flights to pay for the trip. Once in San Diego, Corrigan began refurbishing his plane, intent on using it to fly across the ocean. In 1935, after installing extra gas tanks and a new engine, he asked aviation authorities for permission to make a transatlantic flight, from New York to Dublin, Ireland. The inspectors, deeming his plane to be unsound for such a journey, told him no, although they did give him a license for cross-country flights. Corrigan asked again in 1936 and was told to wait another year. He was also told he would need to get a radio operator's license for the flight, despite the plane not having a radio.

In 1937, after installing two extra gas tanks for good measure, Corrigan requested permission for the third time. Unfortunately, this was right after the disappearance of Amelia Earhart, and authorities worried about another disappearance not only turned Corrigan down, but refused to renew his cross-country license, grounding the plane for six months. Angered, Corrigan began plotting to take off from New York and fly to Dublin in the middle of the night, ultimately deciding against it at the last minute, due to bad weather.

In July, 1938, after naming his plane Sunshine, Corrigan received an experimental license, allowing him to fly from California to New York, then back again. Corrigan took off, developing a small gas tank leak mid-flight, which forced him to stick his head out the window as he flew due to the fumes. He landed at Roosevelt Field in New York with only four gallons of fuel remaining.

Corrigan made rudimentary repairs, but did not repair the leak, because it would have taken more than a week to repair it. On the morning of July 17, 1938, Corrigan took off from the airfield, heading east, ostensibly to avoid some buildings on the west side of the airfield before turning around and flying to California. Except, instead of turning around and heading towards California, Corrigan just kept flying east, disappearing into the fog.

After ten hours of flying, Corrigan noticed that his feet were cold. Remember that leak that he didn't fix? Yeah, turns out it was still an issue, leading to a solid inch of gasoline to pool on the cockpit floor. This was an issue, both because it meant he could run out of fuel and because the gasoline was dangerously close to leaking out onto the exhaust pipe, where it would catch fire. Corrigan stabbed a hole in the floor of the cockpit with a screwdriver, causing the gasoline to drain away from the exhaust pipe, keeping it from exploding.

Initially, Corrigan considered flying slowly to conserve fuel. But, realizing that would just give more time for the fuel to leak, Corrigan flew as fast as possible. It was a race against time. After 28 hours of continuous flying, Corrigan touched down at the Baldonnel Aerodrome, southwest of Dublin.

Corrigan was of course asked about why he blatantly defied orders preventing him from flying across the Atlantic. His response? It was an accident. He got lost in the fog and didn't realize he was flying east because his compass was broken. He hadn't realized he was flying over the ocean until 26 hours into the flight.

Douglas Corrigan stuck by the story for the rest of his life, despite no one else ever believing it. The authorities grounded Corrigan for 14 days, giving him time to return to New York via ocean liner, where he was welcomed by a ticker-tape parade that attracted more than a million people. Corrigan's "accidental" flight made international headlines. I'm particularly fond of the headline from the New York Post, which wrote "NAGIROC YAW GNORW LIAH" on the front page. Corrigan quickly cashed in on his fame, selling wristwatches that ran counter-clockwise, writing an autobiography titled "That's My Story," and playing himself in the biopic about his flight "The Flying Irishman." Said film ends with a scene where Corrigan attempts to use his fame to become an airline pilot, but is turned down, because passengers are afraid of him flying the wrong way.

Corrigan test flew bombers and flew in the Ferry Command during WWII. In 1946, he ran for the U.S. Senate as a Prohibition Party candidate, getting less than 2% of the vote. In 1950, he retired from aviation and bought an orange grove.

TAINTOR

Amazing Grace

The story behind the hymn "Amazing Grace" has been told often, including in the movie "Freedom" and in the biographical film "Newton's Grace." John Newton, the author of "Amazing Grace," had been a slave trader who had a conversion experience in 1748. Following a mutiny by his crew, Newton was put ashore on Sierra Leone and forced to work on a lemon and lime plantation, becoming virtually a slave himself. After being rescued and on his return to England, his ship was battered by a violent storm where it appeared that all was lost. Newton called out to God for help and his ship, and its crew, were saved from destruction. Although this marked a turning point in Newton's life, he didn't immediately end his career as a slave trader, continuing in this until 1754 or 1755. But God's grace had apparently planted a seed in Newton's heart, and he began studying theology and eventually became an Anglican clergyman and ardent abolitionist. God's grace often produces conversions which appear suddenly in response to a particular event or crisis in our lives and yet it may take years or even decades for the conversion to have its full effect in our lives. When I think of the many times in my life when God's grace saved me from what could have been utter destruction, I realize how often I've been lost or blind to something which only God could show me. Often God saves us from ourselves.

WHAT DO YOU REALLY KNOW? ABOUT VAPING?

FACTS:

- Over 2,500 people have been admitted to hospital due to severe lung damage from vaping devices.
- Products that claim they are nicotine-free are not.
- Vape's primary ingredient, formaldehyde, causes cancer.
- Vape liquid can have up to 5 times as much nicotine as cigarettes.

DID YOU KNOW?
In some cases, doctors don't even know how to treat you because there is little research on vapes/juuls. Some people can't even feel the effects of vaping (coughing, chest pain, shortness of breath) until it's too late.

WHAT ARE YOU PUTTING IN YOUR BODY?

COUNTRY GIRL’S CORNER

Dryer Sheets & Fun With Feets

By Sheryl L. Carter
Boy, you just never know where I am going to go with these titles, do you? Ha! Gives y’all something to think about. I’m eating a bit of lunch here with a sandwich, carrot, and apple to much on, plus a cup of Yogi Energy Tea. Because I need it.
So what’s been going on this week? For one thing, since yesterday we have had 3.2” of rain in the last week! So wonderful and so needed! The ground is just drinking it in.
On Monday of this past week, I did the normal routine, then grabbed the old butcher knife out in the garage, and dug out dandelions in the English garden. I have already sprayed the walk and patio with the vinegar/Epsom salt/Dawn mix, but need to go over it again. Unfortunately, I can’t pry the lid off of the sprayer, so it will have to wait for stronger hands.
That afternoon, a couple from the Oskaloosa area that read my column got ahold of me asking if they could come up and get bluebells? For sure, as it looks like an acre of them out there. They came and dug up a few plants. “Is that all you want?” I questioned. “Oh, yes,” they said, “this is enough.” Then we sat on my patio and chatted for awhile. I was so glad they contacted me and came up.
On Tuesday I got busy and raked the leaves out of the lodge, and from around the maple tree, piling them in the cook pit, after I had dug it out so we can build a nice fire next time we want to cook out. I swept down the rustic shelves, taking a few of the garden ornaments out to be placed around. It felt really good to get that job done. Then a sweet young friend drove in to see if I was home. I was so glad to see her and we sat on the patio for a good visit.
Wednesday was Dr. appointment day, so went to the Pella Medical Center early to get my blood test. That young lab tech man sat me down, tightened up a band around my arm, and in no time had two vials of blood ready to test, with no pain to speak of. Piece of cake. Then I went out to the Thrift to drop some stuff off, look around a little, then got the week’s groceries. I tell you, I don’t know what people do when buying their week’s groceries these days—my cart was about one-fourth full, but still my bill was way high. Amazing. It was time for my appointment; my blood pressure was unremarkable, which is good, and the visit went very well. She was happy, so I was happy.

After that I got on 163, and drove back up to Costco in Ankeny to get a refund on the lenses I had got last week. I couldn’t read worth a hoot with them. My eyesight is not good anyway, so just assumed this is the way it was, until I had compared the readers with the new lenses, and was amazed at the difference! Sooo another trip. I had the option of sending them back to the lab in California, but what if they still didn’t work? Then another trip. So got my refund and came on home. I am just glad I have the reader glasses to tide me over until I can get new lenses in my good frames.
Thursday morning it had rained, and I was just finishing up my stretching workout when I thought I heard voices. Checked my phone and the tree man was there! By the time I got outside, he was in the bucket of his cherry picker with a little chain saw lopping off those three dead limbs in the top of the big maple beside the lodge. In 45 minutes the job was done and with grateful handshakes all around, the crew was off to their next chore. Mid-afternoon, Jazzy and I went out to Many Treasures for their monthly hunt and pick. I found a few things, too.
I also stopped in at Dr. Fikse, our Chiro here in town, for a second tune-up. I had been up there early Wednesday morning, as the night before my back locked up something fierce as I tried to get out of bed or even turn over. Sure my mattress layer needs another switch-out, but boy,

I was way out in the bones in my lower back and pelvis area. He is very good. Very gentle, and takes his time. Then he plugged in the muscle vibrator and went over those sore areas to further loosen things up. He did it all over again Thursday, but it was not nearly so out as a few days previous.
Friday, yesterday, I wasn’t worth a thing all day. Tried to do my work out, but shut it off. We had two visitations that afternoon late, but I didn’t feel like changing clothes to go, so went out to Many Treasures again for a few minutes to see if what I missed the day before was still there, and one was! The bottom sheet of the soft flannel sheet set I had got on Thursday. I also found a pair of lovely wide Dutch lace curtains that I hadn’t even seen the day before.
And therein lies the dryer sheet part of today’s column title.
Folks love dryer sheets and fabric softeners. They think they must use them in every wash. When I was growing up, and helping Mom do the wash, our laundry was whipped up by the wind out on the six long clotheslines out in the yard. By the time you brought in those sheets and towels everything smelled fresh and good, filled with sunlight. In the winter, Mom hung the wash in the house, and it smelled good in there too, while adding humidity to the indoor air. Even today I love to hang my sheets on the clotheslines in my back yard. Every time I take them off the lines, I bury my nose in the bundle to breathe in the freshness of sun and breeze—oh, so good!
So out at Many Treasures I had found that set of nice soft flannel sheets, just right for my bed during these still chilly spring nights. I brought them home, and stuffed them in my washer, noticing that, yes, they were impregnated with fabric softener. I say that reservedly, as to me it smelled more like sheep dip—strong and not pleasant at all. They went through the whole wash cycle and a good spin out in the dryer. I noticed the “fragrance” was rather pungent, but figured it would be fine having been washed, happily spread those nice flannels on my bed, threw the top quilts over, and was ready to hop in later in the evening.

Hop in I did, but a few hours later I was awake, aware the rash on my neck and chest was also awake, plus now my back was itching. A quick check in the bathroom mirror showed more breaking out on my back. What was going on? Then “light bulb”! Fabric softener and my skin do not mix at all, and even though I had put those sheets through the whole wash cycle, there was still plenty of residue left—hence the smell.
I jerked the offending sheets off the bed, filled the washer tub, and an extremely generous helping of vinegar, plus a bit more detergent, stuffed the sheets in, and just let them soak for the rest of the night. Then I put a whole other set of mismatched flannels on the bed, and took a shower. It helped.
This morning I ran the batch through the whole cycle again, but this time I hauled them out to my clotheslines. The north wind was blowing briskly, and they whipped out there for the rest of the morning. Finally I went out, and began taking down the clothespins and piling the sheets in my basket. Cautiously, I took a sniff from the first sheet—well, how about that?? Fresh and clean, and filled with sun and wind. “Just the checker”, as my Dad used to say. Every trace of that awful sheep dip odor was gone.
People need to look up the ingredients in dryer sheets and fabric softeners. It’s not good. Some of the chemicals used are outright dangerous for us. Hence my skin’s reaction.
Until next time!
OH, I forgot to tell you about the “feets”—I took a walk barefoot out in my back yard the other afternoon. Walking on ground, the earth, is good for us, and it sure felt good to me.

Sigourney golf caps off successful week with win at home invite

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review
SIGOURNEY – Home course advantage wasn't the only reason why they won. Although it certainly didn't hurt.

Friday afternoon the Sigourney boys golf team won their home invitational. They did it in fashion too, with three of the top-4 scores coming from a Sigourney golfer. The Savages shot a 295 as a team, they bested Solon who was second with a 315. BGM was third with a 326. Don Bosco was fourth with a 335 and Grand View Christian finished fifth with a 343. "I think the guys definitely took advantage of the home course, but you still have to take and make the shots that are given to them," said Sigourney golf coach, Zach Tremmel. "We had some guys step up with some really good rounds today."

Leading the way through the course was Solon Yates, the junior golfer who has been putting together great round after great round recently. Friday afternoon was no exception as he was able to shoot a 68 which earned him the overall medalist honors. Yates' round started off on a blistering pace as he had three birdies in the first four holes.

"It felt pretty good out there on the course," Yates said after his round. "I was very happy with my score and obviously happy for the team score as well."

The front nine for Yates concluded with two birdies and a bogie. He finished with 34 strokes on the front of the course.

Yates started off the back nine (in reality just the front nine again) with an eagle. He then had a par on the next five holes.

"I felt really in control throughout the entire round," Yates said. "I was hitting my driver really good. If I can hit my driver really well out here I usually have a pretty low score."

Yates shot another 34 on the back nine to finish with his score of a 68.

"We had one, two and four in the whole tournament, that shows a lot of dominance," Coach Tremmel said. "Hopefully we can keep that going as we head into the final few weeks of the season."

Freshman Jordan Tremmel finished as the runner-up medalist with a 73. Isaac Bruns was fourth with a 76. Ike Molyneux was fifth with a 78. Josh Wyatt finished eighth with an 83 and Cain Weber shot an 85 to finish 11th.

The tournament on Friday capped off a week of wins for the Sigourney golf team.

In a dual meet on April 21 they were able to best Lynnville-Sully 150-218.

Yates led the team with a 34. Bruns and Ike Molyneux both shot a 38. Weber, Wyatt and Tremmel all shot a 40.

On April 24 the Savages bested Iowa Valley 148-0 (Iowa Valley didn't have enough members to compete as a team). Yates led that round with a 35. Weber and Tremmel were both second with 37s. Wyatt shot a 39. Molyneux finished with a 41 and Bruns shot a 46.

"We all know that we are good and we can compete at the state level," Yates said. "I think the wins just kind of reinforces the fact that we can play and put together some really good rounds."

Yates sets new school record in 3,000 meter run

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

EDDYVILLE – When the record was last set the song 'Rock Me Amadeus' was near the top of the charts and John Mellencamp's, 'R.O.C.K. In the USA' was a close second.

Back then Sigourney runner Susie Snook was able to set a school record in the 3,000 meter run with a time of 11:23.

No one at Sigourney had touched that record until last week, when Ellie Yates was able to run a time of 11:21.06 at the Eddyville-Blakesburg-Fremont meet held April 22. That broke the nearly 40-year old school record.

Yates was able to win the race, and the Sigourney girls finished fourth overall with 95 points. Davis County won the meet with a score of 178 points.

Other results for the Sigourney girls on April 22:

Addison Yates was second in the 1,500 meter run with a time of 5:35.45. Cloee Wilson was fourth. Addison Yates also finished second in the 3,000 meter run.

Brynn Clarahan was second in the 400 hurdles.

Kia Montgomery was third in the long jump with a leap of 13-feet-2.5-inches. McKinley Chittick was fifth in the high jump after clearing 4-feet-6-inches.

Josephine Moore finished third in the shot put with a throw of 32-feet-9-inches. Devyn Smallwood placed seventh.

Moore was fifth in the discus with a throw of 88-feet-6-inches.

The Sigourney 4x200 team placed third. In the 4x400 the girls relay team finished third.

In the 4x800 the Sigourney girls placed fourth. The sprint medley relay team was fourth.

Camalita Cave was fourth in the 100 meter dash. Cloee

Wilson finished eight and Abyl McCulley finished ninth in the 400 meter dash. Becca Gretter was ninth in the 800. Ella Bahlman was 10th.

In the 4x100 the Sigourney girls placed fifth. In the distance medley relay the Sigourney team was sixth.

At the BGM meet on Friday night the Sigourney girls placed sixth overall with 50 points. East Marshall won the meet with 123 points.

Results for Sigourney from BGM:

Ellie Yates finished third in the 1,500 meter run. Addison Yates was fourth in the same race.

Brynn Clarahan was third in the 400 hurdles.

McKinley Chittick was fourth in the high jump after clearing 4-feet-8-inches.

Josephine Moore was fourth in the shot put with a throw of 33-feet-half-an-inch. Moore finished fifth in the discus with a throw of 82-feet.

The Savages finished third in the 4x800 relay. They also finished third in the sprint medley relay.

Sigourney finished fourth in the 4x100 relay. They also finished fourth in the 4x200 relay. Another fourth place finish came to the Savages in the 4x400 relay.

McKinley Chittick was 10th in the 100 meter dash. Kia Montgomery was ninth in the 200 meter dash.

Sigourney girls pick up two wins on the links

By Mark Schafer | The News Review

OTTUMWA – Sometimes it is all about learning from your competition.

During a busy week last week the Savages were able to pick up two wins, but maybe, more importantly, some lessons in a narrow defeat against Ottumwa.

The Sigourney girls golf team started off the week with a 214-231 win over Lynnville-Sully.

Ella Bruns led the way in that win as she and Adalynne Tremmel both shot a 52. Kayla Renner, Reagan Clarahan and Ella Fineran all shot a 55. Hannah Hanselman finished with a 58.

On Thursday the Sigourney golfers were back in action as they bested Iowa Valley 201-0.

Once again, Bruns was at the top of the leaderboard as she shot a 48. Ella Fineran finished with a 50.

Renner finished with 51 strokes, Clarahan had 52 strokes. Tremmel shot a 54 and Hanselman finished with a 55.

Tuesday afternoon the Savages had challenged themselves with a triangular against two 4A schools, Ottumwa and Des Moines East, who were playing in Ottumwa. The Savages finished second overall with 212 strokes.

Sigourney's Ella Bruns drives a ball down the course during an April 22 meet held at the Cedar Creek Golf Course in Ottumwa. Bruns had two medalist wins last week during her round of golf.

Ottumwa won the meet with a 199.

Renner led the Savages with a 48, finishing in third place overall. Hanselman shot a 51. Tremmel finished with a 56. Bruns shot a 57. Clarahan had a 58. Fineran shot a 59.

"Coming to a harder course and playing on bigger greens is only going to make our team better," said Sigourney head golf coach Zach Tremmel after the April 22 meet. "These are quicker greens than what we are playing on. I think we gave up some strokes there. Hopefully that is an eye opener for them."

Coach Tremmel said the decision to play two 4A schools was to help give the Sigourney players some experience on playing on a longer course and against players that are used to playing should help down the road.

"Whenever you step up to play against bigger schools it is only natural to want to play better," Tremmel said. "The Ottumwa and East girls are used to playing on these longer and quicker greens. I thought our girls really represented well against these bigger schools. Our goal is to be playing our best golf at the end of the season, and this should help with that."

The News-Review

Ava Gherking

The Athlete of the Week for the week of April 21 is English Valleys sophomore Ava Gherking.

For the second week in a row Gherking was able to pile up the victories. At a meet in Eddyville on April 22 Gherking was able to win the 100 meter dash and 200 meter dash events.

Gherking continued her strong week of runs at a Friday meet held in Brooklyn. There Gherking was able to once again win the 100 meter and 200 meter dash events.

The News-Review would like to congratulate English Valleys runner Ava Gherking on her outstanding runs at the track meets and for being named this week's Athlete of the Week.

Chloe Glosser

The Athlete of the Week for the Week of April 21 is Pekin junior distance runner Chloe Glosser.

At the Drake Relays 3,000 meter run event Glosser was able to test her limits with a fast start. Despite a quick pace to the race Glosser settled into the top-10 of runners early on. On the bell lap Glosser was able to pass three runners and eventually finish third overall with a time of 9:57.37.

Currently Glosser holds the second-fastest time in the entire state in the 3,000 meter run.

The News-Review would like to congratulate Glosser on her outstanding run at the Blue Oval, and for being named the Athlete of the Week.

Track qualifiers to be decided at WACO

All four area schools to have district track in Wayland

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

BOONE – In order to test themselves against the rest of the state, they'll first have to test themselves against each other.

The district track qualifying assignments were released last week and all four area schools were given the same assignment. Sigourney, Keota, English Valleys and Pekin will all travel to WACO on May 15 for the State qualifying track meet.

A total of 14 different schools will compete at the district track meet.

In order to qualify for the State meet the winner in each event will gain an automatic berth into the State meet. The IHSA and IGHSU will then compile all the times from all of the State qualifying meets. The 14 best non winning times will qualify for the State track meet.

Joining the four area schools at the WACO state qualifying meet will be: Columbus, Danville, Highland, Hillcrest Academy, HLV-TC, Lone Tree, New London, WACO, Wapello and Winfield-Mt. Union.

Field events will start the meet at 4 p.m. Then running events will start at 4:45 p.m.

The State track and field meet will take place May 22-24 in Des Moines at Drake Stadium.

Glosser gains spots with last lap passes

Pekin's Anna Hadckley finishes top-6 in discus

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

DES MOINES – Coming down to the final 400 meters it was time to see just how strong her foot was feeling.

For most of April an achilles injury had limited the runs of Pekin junior Chloe Glosser. She had run some distance races, but nothing to the competition she was seeing at the Blue Oval during her run in the 3,000 meter race during the Drake Relays.

When the bell for the final lap rang the Pekin runner, sporting green sunglasses had settled into the top pack. While she didn't want to injure herself more, she also knew that the only way to test how strong her healing had been was to run at full speed. So that's exactly what she did.

"I always try to take about 10 hard steps with about 500 meters left in the race," Glosser explained after her run on Thursday. "Those 10 hard steps gets me in the mindset a little earlier for the last lap, and that's what I needed. I was able to catch two of the girls in front of me during those steps. Then I saw the third place girl and I chased her down until about 200 to go, I was able to pass her on the home stretch. I just felt like I was dying, but I was going as fast as I could that final lap. My legs are jello now."

Despite having jello-like legs at the end of the race Glosser was able to hold her head up. Not only had her foot and ankle held up, Glosser was able to finish third overall in the 3,000 meter run with a time of 9:57.37.

"I am so happy with that time," Glosser said. "I have had a minor injury with my achilles for a while, so I've had to cross train with lower distances a lot. That has been hard mentally. I was happy I qualified. I knew that whatever I did in the race, I just had to be patient and whatever God had planned for me he would provide, but being patient isn't easy for me to do."

While it may not be easy for her to be patient, the patience paid off for Glosser. With the third place finish she was the second-fastest runner in class 1A competition. Second place finisher, Lili Denton of St. Albert was the only faster 1A girl. Cedar Falls runner Charlie Gall was the winner of the race.

"This finish makes me excited to see where I will end up in May," Glosser said as she prepares to qualify for the State meet later on in the season.

Glosser's teammate, and another Pekin junior, Anna Hadley overcame her own obstacles as she finished sixth in the discus event.

The very first throw of Hadley was an almost perfect arch that landed 135-feet-10-

Pekin's Chloe Glosser runs down the back straight of the Drake Relays during her run in the 3,000 meter run on April 24. Glosser would finish third overall in the race.

inches away from the launch site.

For Hadley that would be her best throw of the competition, and it also helped her get out of a rut she had felt herself be in for the last few meets.

"I have been in a slump lately with discus, I just haven't seemed to get to the 135-foot mark lately, so it was nice to have a first throw go that far," Hadley said after her eventual sixth-place finish. "That was a good start because it proved to me that I could hit where I wanted to hit and it got me ready for the next throws. Sadly, I wasn't able to get throws that good for the rest of the meet."

After her first throw Hadley was in third place.

Her second throw was 128-feet her best mark kept her in fourth place after the second round of throws were done. Her third throw landed 132-feet away from the launch site, she slid back to sixth, but that was still good enough to qualify her for the finals.

The first throw of the final round seemed to get Hadley back into the thick of things. A launch of 134-feet-3-inches didn't improve her position, or on her best throw, but it seemed to be a step in the right direction.

However, her next two throws landed out of bounds. She had to settle for sixth place overall in the competition.

Delilah Subsin of Ottumwa was the discus champion with a throw of 156-feet-9-inches.

While Hadley's discus throw landed her in sixth place in the Drake Relays, among class 1A competition she still has the longest throw of the year. She also beat out all the other 1A competition at the Drake Relays event.

"For 1A girls, even though I was at the top of the standings, it is still great to see that us smaller schools can compete with even the 4A schools," Hadley said. "We can show them that we can compete with them at their level."

Friday morning Hadley returned to the Drake Relays to throw in the shot put.

She would finish 15th overall with a best throw of 36-feet-9.75-inches. Charlee Morton of Hampton-Dumont-CAL won the shot put event with a throw of 46-feet-9.25-inches.

Saturday English Valleys senior Gage Heyne ran at the Drake Relays in the 1,600 meter run. He finished 21st overall with a time of 4:41.72. After the first lap Heyne was in third, and seemed primed to have a good run, but from the second lap on he started to drift back in the pack. He finished 11 seconds off the 20th place finisher.

Quentin Nauman of Western Dubuque won the race with a time of 4:05.17.

Keota boys win meet at Iowa Valley

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

MARENGO – It could be a preview of what is yet to come.

Last week the Keota boys golf team capped off the week by winning a golf meet hosted by Iowa Valley in what was essentially a miniature SICL conference meet.

The Eagles were able to sit a top of the standings with 324 total strokes. They bested HLV/TC who finished second with 351 total strokes. English Valleys was fifth with 401 total strokes.

Brennan McGuire was able to win the overall medalist honors for Keota with 73 total strokes.

Porter Cave was fourth overall after shooting a 79. Billie Kindred was able to finish sixth with 81 strokes. Cooper Strand was 10th overall with 91 strokes.

Jake Morris placed 20th with 105 strokes.

English Valleys was led by Gage Heyne who shot a 76 to finish second overall. Tyler Lortz was fifth overall with an 80. Owen Mather was able to finish with a 114. Jackson Overy was 26th with 131 strokes. Cyrus Morrison shot a 132 to place 27th. Garin Schaffner turned in a score card with 146 total strokes.

On April 23 the Keota boys golfed at a Williamsburg meet. Despite being the smallest school in terms of enrollment the Eagles finished fifth with 342 total strokes.

Like he would later in the week, Brennan McGuire was able to show off his skills. He shot a round-leading 76. That gave him overall medalist honors.

Billie Kindred was seventh with an 82. Porter Cave was 17th with an 86. Jake Morris was 29th with a 98. Cooper Strand shot a 100 and Trucker Sprouse finished with a 101.

DEFINITIONS

- Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
- Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- ppb -- parts per billion.
- ppm -- parts per million.
- pCi/L -- picocuries per liter

- N/A - Not applicable
- ND -- Not detected
- RAA - Running Annual Average
- LRAA - Locational Running Annual Average
- Treatment Technique (TT) - A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
- Action Level (AL) - The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants

- control microbial contaminants.
  - Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
  - SGL - Single Sample Result
  - TCR - Total Coliform Rule
- GENERAL INFORMATION
Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water posed a health risk. More information about contaminants or potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. WHAT CHEER WATER SUPPLY is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. # New report cites ‘harmful effects’ of private equity firms buying nursing homes

One such sale involved a firm buying 29 Iowa nursing homes

By Clark Kauffman, Iowa Capital Dispatch

A new national study has found that private equity firms continue to purchase and then bankrupt nursing homes around the nation.

According to a report issued this week by the Private Equity Stakeholder Project, a nonprofit organization that focuses on the impact of the private equity industry on people and the planet, the percentage of American nursing homes now owned by private equity forms ranges from 5 to 13%, with the upper range of that estimate more likely due to the complex manner in which a facility’s true ownership is sometimes camouflaged.

That finding is consistent with a 2023 report from the Government Accountability Office, which reported that while federal data shows at least 5% of nursing homes nationwide are owned by private equity firms, the data is flawed and the true number is likely higher.

In recent years, the acquisition of nursing homes by private equity investors has come under scrutiny by regulators, the media and members of Congress, with critics suggesting too many profit-minded investors are targeting care facilities for acquisition, starving them of cash while collecting a reliable stream of income from Medicare, and then cashing out, in some cases by filing for bankruptcy protection.

In its report, PESP examines six private equity-backed nursing home deals that occurred within the past three years. PESP found that at least three nursing home companies owned directly or indirectly by private equity firms have filed for bankruptcy in recent years: LaVie Care Centers/Consulate Health Care in 2024, Goldner Capital Management in 2024, and Gulf Coast Health Care in 2022.

One private equity firm buys 29 Iowa homes

One acquisition detailed in the report involves the private equity firm Cascade Capital Group, which in September 2024 acquired one of Iowa’s largest nursing home chains, ABCM Corp., for $85 million. The deal included 326 assisted living units as well as 29 nursing homes with 2,346 skilled-nursing beds.

The sale led to 7% of Iowa’s 410 nursing homes being handed over to a private equity firm. A Cascade Capital affiliate, Legacy Healthcare, now manages the homes.

Last year, the non-profit Center for Medicare Advocacy compared federal data from the Iowa homes with data on other Legacy-managed nursing homes and found that the Cascade/Legacy facilities had, on average, considerably lower ratings for overall performance and for their inspection outcomes. They also had lower nurse-staffing ratings, more abuse citations, higher federal civil money penalties, and more denials of payment for new admissions, the center found.

The federal data indicates the Cascade Capital facilities performed more poorly than homes under ABCM’s management, with the Cascade Capital facilities being fined 17 times as much as their ABCM counterparts.

Each ABCM facility had, on average, incurred $4,815 in federal fines over the past three years, while the Legacy-managed facilities averaged $83,994 in federal fines.

In October 2024, a month after Cascade acquired the Iowa nursing homes, a 45-year-old resident of the chain’s Harmony House Health Care Center in Waterloo died. Inspectors reported that the resident, who had special dietary restrictions that limited her food intake to soft, bite-sized items, choked after “stuffing an entire peanut butter and jelly sandwich in her mouth.”

The state alleged that “staff at Harmony House failed to develop and put in place an effective behavioral intervention plan that might have discouraged such behavior” and on Nov. 6, 2024, it imposed a $10,000 fine on the facility. State records show that fine has yet to be paid, with the full amount still owed.

Ownership not always revealed to regulators

The new report also highlights Gulf Coast Health Care’s acquisition of a nursing home chain that operated 28 skilled nursing facilities in Florida, Georgia, and Mississippi. In 2021, Gulf Coast was facing 167 personal injury or wrongful death claims and filed for bankruptcy.

“Multiple studies confirm the harmful effects that private equity ownership has on nursing homes, and the increased risk placed on residents and workers,” the report states. It cautions that the Trump administration may do little to address the issue, noting that during the president’s first term, federal protocols were revised “to discourage regulators from levying fines against nursing homes,” even in cases of resident deaths.

According to the New York Times, that effort was part of a broader plan to relax regulations and reduce bureaucracy and government oversight of business. For example, a requirement that every care facility employ at least one specialist in preventing infections was replaced with a requirement that an anti-infection specialist spend “sufficient time” at the facility.

The report recommends that federal and state agencies be given the authority to approve or reject mergers and sales involving nursing homes based on factors that include the potential impact on quality of care.

The report also calls for greater transparency in nursing home ownership. While homes are now required to report information about their owners, including private equity firms and real estate investment trusts, government authorities should be coordinating efforts to ensure that all facilities comply fully with such requirements.

Some ownership data kept secret by State of Iowa

The report also recommends that nursing homes be required to file public, consolidated cost reports that would detail the owners’ payments to themselves through affiliates and related parties, an amount now thought to be in the billions of dollars.

Under a state law that was approved in 2023, nursing home buyers in Iowa must submit to the state documentation of relationships to any related corporations and provide details of their projected revenue and expenses.

When asked whether the Iowa Department of Inspections, Appeals and Licensing imposed such requirements on the buyers of the ABCM facilities, a department spokesperson said only that it followed the requirements of Iowa law, “which includes a robust financial analysis.”

The spokesperson noted that under state law, all of the information a buyer provides to the state that is related to their business relationships and compliance with the new financial regulations are treated as confidential and are not subject to public disclosure through the state’s Open Records Law.

Earlier this year, Sen. Claire Celsi, a West Des Moines Democrat, introduced Senate File 533, which would have barred the state from approving any change of ownership that results in a nursing home being acquired by a private equity fund or real estate investment trust.

That bill, as well as Senate File 536, which would have required the Office of Long-Term Care Ombudsman to prioritize on-site visits to homes taken over by private equity firms, failed to advance.

The nursing home industry’s main lobbying organization, the American Health Care Association, has argued that with private equity firms owning as few as 5% of all homes, the issue is “distraction” from the real threats faced by facilities and their residents, such as workforce shortages.

In a written statement to McKnight’s Long-Term Care News, the AHCA said “the reality is that owners of long-term care facilities are extremely diverse and are often run by Main Street, not Wall Street.”

Summary of Notable Criminal Judgment Entries: January through March 2025

By Keokuk County Attorney Amber Thompson

Please note, any charges filed against a defendant for which there is no conviction are merely allegations unless or until a conviction is entered on the charge.

Brett Little, 43, of What Cheer, Iowa, was sentenced to two years in prison with all time suspended contingent upon his successful completion of probation to the Iowa Department of Corrections after pleading guilty to Non-Compliance with Registration Requirements as a Sex Offender, an Aggravated Misdemeanor. Little’s charges were filed by the Keokuk County Sheriff’s Department after the Iowa Department of Public Safety informed the Keokuk County Sheriff’s Department that Little had been convicted of Criminal Sex Conduct Fourth Degree in the State of Minnesota on February 26, 2024 and was required to register as a sex offender in the State of Iowa within five business days and had still not registered his Keokuk County home address as of March 28, 2024.

Robert Andrews, 44, of Sigourney, Iowa, was sentenced to five years in prison after pleading guilty to Possession of Controlled Substance (Methamphetamine), Third or Subsequent Offense, a Class D Felony, and further sentenced to two years in prison after pleading guilty to Unauthorized Use of Credit Card under $1500, an Aggravated Misdemeanor. Andrews’ sentences ran concurrently with each other and with sentences imposed in pending criminal cases in Marion and Wapello Counties. Andrews was first charged in January 2024 by the Keokuk County Sheriff’s Department with Unauthorized Use of Credit Card and Burglary in the Third Degree – Motor Vehicle by alleging he had stolen a credit card out of a vehicle and used the credit card to purchase cigarettes and lottery tickets at the BP gas station in Hedrick and then, after the victim had reported the card as stolen, Andrews attempted to use the stolen credit card at Dollar General in Hedrick and Casey’s General Store in Sigourney. In October 2024, the vehicle Andrews was driving was stopped by the Iowa State Patrol for speeding in Keokuk County. After a search of the vehicle, the Iowa State Patrol charged Andrews with Possession of Controlled Substance (Methamphetamine) and Possession of Controlled Substance (Marijuana).

Eric Stanley, 46, of What Cheer, Iowa, was sentenced to five years in prison with all time suspended contingent upon his successful completion of probation to the Iowa Department of Corrections after pleading guilty to three counts of Dominion/Control of Firearm/Offensive Weapon by Domestic Abuser, Class D Felonies. The Keokuk County Sheriff’s Office charged Stanley with multiple counts of Dominion/Control of Firearm/Offensive Weapon by Domestic Abuser after executing a search warrant on his properties in September 2023 alleging that Stanley possessed firearms/ammunition/offensive weapons while being subject to a protective no contact order.

Samuel Dereus, 32, of Prairie City, Iowa, was sentenced to ten years in prison after pleading guilty to Homicide by Vehicle – Reckless Driving, a Class C Felony, and Operating While Intoxicated, First Offense, a Serious Misdemeanor. These charges were filed by the Iowa State Patrol after investigating an automobile wreck in which Dereus’ vehicle collided with another vehicle, killing the driver of the other vehicle in August 2023.

In total, thirty-six convictions were entered (excluding scheduled traffic violations) including two Operating While Intoxicated Second Offenses, one Operating While Intoxicated First offense, four Driving While Barred offenses, one Possession of a Controlled Substance – Marijuana First offense, three Bodily Injury Assault offenses, one Sex Offender Registry Violation offense, one Criminal Mischief Third Degree offense, one Assault Causing Bodily Injury offense, two Child Endangerment offenses, one Possession of a Controlled Substance – Marijuana Second offense, one Unauthorized Use of Credit Card offense, six Violation of No Contact Order offenses, five Simple Assault offenses, one Public Intoxication offense, two Driving Under Suspension offenses, and three Contempt/Revocation of probation findings.

STRIKING THROUGH THE SEASON

The Sigourney-Keota Soccer team has played 5 games so far this season. They have played exceptionally well, even though their record doesn't show that. They played a hard-fought game against Highland on Tuesday, April 8. SK held Highland scoreless for most of the first half. Highland was awarded a penalty kick in the first half that pushed Highland through. Ty Goldman was in the goal the entire game and had some great saves. The game went in favor of Highland winning 4-0. On Friday April 11, Sigourney-Keota played Central Lee and played exceptionally. Central Lee is an undefeated team, but SK played exceptionally. Aydin Flowers scored a goal but Central Lee was too much for SK to handle, winning 6-1. SK has had to face a lot of adversity this season with injuries happening. Even though there are injuries, SK has done a great job with working with what they can to compete on the field.

Help Pick Iowa’s Best Breaded Pork Tenderloin—Nominations Now Open

CLIVE – Is the breaded pork tenderloin your go-to when eating out? If so, it’s that time of year again and we need your help to uncover the 2025 Iowa’s Best Breaded Pork Tenderloin! The Iowa Pork Producers Association (IPPA) is on the hunt for the tastiest, juiciest, most mouth-watering breaded pork tenderloin sandwich in the state.

Nominations for the 23rd annual Iowa’s Best Breaded Pork Tenderloin Contest are officially open from April 17 to June 1, and you can throw your favorite restaurant into the ring. Whether it’s a small-town café or a local go-to spot, now’s your chance to give them the recognition they deserve.

Each person can nominate one restaurant, and if your pick takes the crown, you could win $100 just for showing your love! New restaurants pop up around the state all the time, each with their own take on the breaded pork tenderloin. So, tell us, do you have one you’re loyal to or do you have a newfound love?

“Restaurants should definitely be paying attention to this contest and encouraging nominations from their customers if they haven’t in the past”, says Denise Wiley, chairwoman of the Restaurant & Foodservice Committee at Iowa Pork. “Testimonials from past restaurant winners and even Top 5 qualifiers have proven Iowans’ love for breaded pork tenderloins and have reported selling 5-10x more tenderloins than their average.”

The breaded pork tenderloin sandwich is a quintessential Iowa dish, enjoyed by Iowans and visitors alike. It’s an extremely popular item on the menu in small-town diners and restaurants across the state.

Iowa leads the nation in pork production, and this contest is a fun, flavorful way to celebrate both culinary pride and local agriculture.

Here’s How It Works:

To qualify, a restaurant must serve hand-breaded pork tenderloin sandwiches as a regular menu item and have consistent, year-round hours that are open to the public. Sorry, no food trucks, seasonal spots, or catering-only businesses are eligible.

After the nomination period, IPPA will narrow entries down to the top 40 restaurants, including the top five from each of its eight districts. Then, undercover judges will hit the road to taste and score the finalists based on pork quality, flavor, appearance, and overall deliciousness.

The top five will be revealed in October during National Pork Month, and the winner will snag $500, a plaque, and some serious bragging rights. The runner-up gets $250 and a plaque too!

Just how big is this thing?

In 2023 alone, more than 9,000 nominations came in for 774 different restaurants. So yeah—this contest is a pretty big deal.

Recent Winners:

2024 — Dairy Sweet in Dunlap

2023 — Cliff’s Place in Manning

2022 — Lid’s Bar & Grill in Waukon

2021 — Victoria Station in Harlan, which has since closed

2020 — PrairieMoon On Main in Prairieburg

Click here for the full list of past winners dating back to 2003. IPPA also invites food lovers to conquer the Iowa Tenderloin Trail by June 1 and win a T-shirt.

New Resource Describes Feed Mixing Uniformity Test Equipment and Procedure

By IPIC Student Communications Assistant
Lauren Beyer

AMES – Uniform feed ensures animals receive consistent nutrients, supporting their health and performance. A new publication from the Iowa Pork Industry Center at Iowa State University helps producers evaluate feed uniformity and identify ingredients that may affect herd outcomes.

“Mixer Uniformity Test Procedure” IPIC 210 outlines proper sampling procedures and testing methods for trace substances, and helps in analyzing and interpreting results. Iowa State University Extension and Outreach swine specialist Mark Storlie is the author of this publication.

“The mixer design will direct your sampling procedure,” Storlie said. “Samples should be taken at, or as close to, the mixer discharge as possible.”

The publication explains sampling techniques for both horizontal and vertical mixers. Horizontal mixers use a grain probe to collect 10 samples from set locations inside the mixer. For vertical or continuous proportioning mixers, samples should be collected as the feed is discharged, with careful timing.

Salt, trace minerals and synthetic amino acids are commonly used as tracers to test uniformity. Samples can be sent to a lab or sometimes are tested onsite.

“A mixer uniformity test should be conducted within 90 days of installation of a new or replacement mixer, or periodically (minimum once every one to three years),” Storlie said.

The publication also has guidance on interpreting test results and includes a link to the Feed Uniformity Test Tracker Excel spreadsheet, created by Storlie for calculating results. Consistent testing establishes a routine for producers, which in turn helps their animals maintain a healthy status and continued growth.

The two-page publication is available at no charge from the ISU Extension Store.

Time to Check and Treat Your Herd for Ticks

Tickborne disease can impact performance, death loss

By Sherry Hoyer,
Beth Reynolds

AMES — Temperatures are warmer, grass is greening up nicely, and yes, it’s time for ticks. But are ticks on cattle a concern? Absolutely, said Iowa Beef Center program specialist Beth Reynolds, because of disease transmission opportunities.

For example, anaplasmosis is a tickborne disease with an estimated U.S. beef industry impact over $300 million per year. The cost is realized in poor performance, abortions and death loss.

“For infected cattle that recover without medication, these animals remain carriers for life without showing clinical signs, which increases the likelihood for the disease to spread within the herd,” she said. “Anaplasmosis is in Iowa with cases trending higher in recent years.”

There are various methods available to control tick populations on livestock, with use dependent on individual circumstances.

“Treating with chemical acaricides, like a pour-on, is the most common strategy,” Reynolds said. “To prevent ticks from developing resistance, rotate the class of chemical used annually. When treating, treat all animals in the herd at the same time, and reapply product according to label directions for best results.”

Burning pastures in the spring can reduce tick populations in that pasture, although she cautions farmers to be aware of brush areas, etc., that can serve as tick refuges.

Deer tick

She said a recent BEEF magazine article titled “Dangerous hitchhikers” does a great job of describing and explaining cattle health threats caused by ticks, and encourages producers to take a look at it.

The three most common species encountered in Iowa are the blacklegged (deer) tick, American dog (wood) tick, and the lone star tick. All three are effective vectors for different diseases and pose a risk to humans as well as livestock and pets. In addition, lone star tick bites pose the risk of alpha-gal syndrome (red meat allergy). Awareness and prevention are crucial in keeping yourself and your livestock healthy.

Are Drones the Future of Tree Fruit Production? Researchers Investigate

Project will include a series of trials and demonstrations to optimize drone-based spraying for high-density fruit orchards

By Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — A team of researchers in Penn State’s College of Agricultural Sciences is addressing the growing interest among tree fruit growers in Pennsylvania and the Northeast in adopting drone-based spraying systems for high-density apple and peach orchards. The Northeast Region of the Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture recently awarded the team two grants to support the work.

“Many farmers are seeking alternatives to traditional air-blast sprayers, which experience frequent breakdowns and inefficiencies,” said team leader Shanthanu Krishna Kumar, assistant professor of tree fruit. “A survey of growers last year revealed that 95% were eager to explore drone spraying technology, citing increased efficiency, labor savings and improved soil health as key benefits.”

Pennsylvania ranks among the top producers of apples in the U.S., with over 14 million bushels harvested annually, highlighting the significance of efficient spraying in this sector, Kumar noted. He explained that growers like the ability of drones to spray at night, which offers advantages such as reduced wind speeds and lower risk to pollinators. Additionally, they see drone spraying as a more viable option for irregularly shaped and steep orchard sites that are less accessible to traditional equipment.

Despite the potential benefits, farmers have expressed concerns about drones maintaining optimal water volumes and spray coverage, as well as whether drone-applied growth-regulating chemicals crucial for managing crop loads in orchards will be as effective, Kumar added. The research team will focus on those aspects in the study.

“Farmers also seek more information on maintenance, troubleshooting and the cost-effectiveness of drone technology,” Kumar said. “This project aims to bridge these knowledge gaps and support growers of all sizes, in adopting sustainable and efficient spraying.”

The project will include a series of field trials and demonstrations to optimize drone-based spraying systems for high-density fruit orchards. High-density apple orchards, for example, have many fruit trees per acre, typically exceeding 180 trees, to maximize yield and production. These orchards use dwarf trees, specialized pruning and tree-training systems to achieve early fruit bearing.

These trials will focus on determining appropriate water volumes, flight parameters and the efficacy of plant growth regulators applied with low water volumes. A side-by-side comparison of drone spraying with traditional air-blast sprayers will provide critical data on spray coverage and economic viability.

The researchers aim to produce best-practice guidelines for drone applications from their work, helping farmers adopt this technology while reducing chemical use, labor costs and environmental impact, Kumar said. Eight growers across Pennsylvania will host on-farm trials, providing real-world insights into the technology’s effectiveness.

Outreach efforts by the researchers will include workshops, field days, webinars and video tutorials, as well as Spanish-language programming. The team will share their findings through industry publications, presentations at conferences and local meetings. The project also will offer guidance on securing funding opportunities for farmers interested in adopting drone spraying systems.

“By addressing farmers’ concerns and providing accessible, practical solutions, our project aims to promote widespread adoption of drone-based spraying technology, leading to more efficient, sustainable and economically viable fruit production in the Northeast,” Kumar said.

Long He, associate professor of agricultural and biological engineering, is co-principal investigator on the project, and Penn State Extension educators Daniel Weber and Maria Gorgo-Simcox are team members.

The grant from the Northeast Region of the Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program is $200,000. The PA Ag Innovation Grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture for purchase of a drone to use in the research is $19,000. The researchers also will use the drone to experiment with scanning fruit trees for precision nutrient management.

This research is part of the College of Agricultural Sciences’ Technologies for Agriculture and Living Systems (TALiS) initiative, a unique, holistic approach that balances the need for increased food productivity and efficiency with a dedication to conserving vital living systems. It envisions a future where advanced technologies help create sustainable, resilient agricultural systems interconnected with the living systems that sustain them.

Field events promising to be a bright spot for Savages

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

SIGOURNEY – She has excelled in just about everything she has ever done.

So, naturally, it is of little surprise that one of the bright spots for the Sigourney girls track team this year will be from senior Josephine Moore.

The senior is leading the team with her ability to excel in the throws so far. Moore has a best shot put distance in the early season of 32-feet-5-inches which has her on the verge of competing with some of the best throwers in class 1A competition.

In the discus throw Moore has a best throw of 89-feet-6-inches, which also puts her towards the top of the conference leaders in that event. With Moore's throws leading the team the Savages are proving to have a strong year in field events.

Backing the field event excellence up are the jumpers of McKinley Chittick and Kia Montgomery.

Chittick is a high jumper who has cleared four-feet-four inches already this year. As her season continues the expectation is that she will continue to be able to improve her jumps.

Montgomery is having a solid sophomore season. She has a best long jump of 13-feet-10-inches so far. That helps put Montgomery towards the front of the conference standings.

The relay runs, especially in the 4x100 and 4x200 are also proving to be a strong suit for the Savages through the early part of the season.

The Savages are primed to have a strong run as they gear up for their conference and district meets.

Cobra soccer ready to make strides in 2025 season

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

SIGOURNEY – There is no question about the heart they have.

This year's Sigourney-Keota soccer team is one that isn't short on heart. They will have to prove that as they play through a tough schedule that includes some of the best teams in southeast Iowa.

The Cobras feature several weapons that they will use to work through the schedule.

Among some of the teams that are featured on the Cobra schedule this year are Chariton and Pella Christian, two teams, that in recent years have had success when it comes to district play.

While the schedule may seem daunting on first look, the Sigourney-Keota team isn't going to let the schedule hold them back.

Overall this year the Cobras have a mix of experience and fresh faces on their team which should help them navigate the tricky schedule.

Among the strengths of the team will be their defense as the final third of the field will help the Cobras fend off some of the sharp shooters of the teams that they will face.

Goalie Ty Goldman is new in goal this year, but he has athleticism and an instinct to go after the ball which should be a benefit for the team as they move forward on the season.

Developing a multi-faceted attack that can strike from anywhere will be one of the things that the Cobras are trying to develop as the schedule goes on.

Distance running, hurdles helping lead Sigourney

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

SIGOURNEY – During the fall he proved that he was fast running across a variety of terrain. So far this spring, he's keeping up the pace he set in the fall.

Sigourney's Troy Klett is continuing to develop a strong junior track season as he has been a nearly unstoppable force in the middle and long distance runs for the Savages. Klett's legs are one of the bright spots for the Savages as the season will go on.

Klett is a force for the Savages as he has an ability to run in multiple different distances, and still turn in fast times.

The junior currently has the fastest time on the team in the 400 meter dash, the fastest time in the 800 meter run, the fastest time in the mile and the 3,200 meter run as well.

Klett's ability to run the mid and long distance races are certainly a big impact for the Savages, but he is far from the only runner on the Savages that is making an impact.

The Savages have a bounty on hurdlers who seem to be able to carry speed with them.

Senior hurdler Caden Clarahan has the current fastest time on the team in the 110 hurdles with a time of 16.77. Sophomore Chase Clarahan has also been fast in the same event with a time of 17.46 so far this spring.

Freshman Dillon Menke has had one of the faster times in the 400 meter hurdle event. He leads a trio of distance hurdlers that seem to be able to carry speed around with them.

Jayden Thompson, the senior thrower has had success at several meets so far. He holds a best shot put throw of 41-feet-10.75-inches already this year. In the discus he has been able to record a best throw of 127-feet.

Roster: Wells Clark, Gavin Khali, Kaylie Montgomery, Jackson Vittetoe, Isabella McCullough, Addison Purkeypile, Isabelle Haines, Aiden Greiner, Sophie Young, Dakota Dodd, Aydin Flowers, Dominic Vega, Sadie Clarahan, Reanah Utterback, Ty Goldman, Liam Van Voitenburg, Caden Meyer, Chase Haifley, Landyn Greiner, Owen Clark

Sigourney boys golfers ready to take next steps

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

SIGOURNEY – Last year everything seemed to fall in place, right until the end of the season.

The Sigourney boys golf team were able to claim the SICL championship, and won the sectional meet. However, at the district meet everything seemed to come apart.

None of the Sigourney golfers would wind up making the State tournament. This year coach Zach Tremmel expects that to change.

A big reason why the Savages are expected to make it to the State meet is all of the experience they have returning to the team.

“The boys return five of six of the golfers from last season,” Tremmel said. “We will also have Jordan Tremmel adding depth to a very strong varsity boys team. We are the de-

KEOTA – With just one senior and three sophomores on the team every score is going to count.

This year the small numbers for the Keota girls golf team isn't expected to hold them back. Although they may not have a full six-member team, the four Keota golfers are all expected to have standout seasons.

Senior Lainey Swanson has played in three nine-hole rounds so far this season and she is proving to have a strong senior year. Her nine-hole low score is 47 strokes already.

She is averaging 50 strokes per nine-hole course which is a leader for the Eagles already.

Emily Conger is a sophomore for the Eagles. Although she has played in one fewer nine-hole round than the rest of her team she is proving to be a strong asset.

Conger's nine-hole low score is a 54. She is KEOTA – A return trip to the State tournament is the biggest focus.

Last year, everything all seemed to come together at the right time for the Eagles. Keota was able to move their way through the district and sectional tournaments to make the State tournament.

Core group of golfers to lead Sigourney in 2025

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

SIGOURNEY – Although the Savages lost three of their golfers from last season, there is still a lot of talent returning to the team.

Sigourney had three seniors graduate from last year's team. That included their lowest average golfer in Emma Hammes.

However, the Savages do have a strong group of returning golfers that could make a big impact on the season.

“Adalynne Tremmel, Clara Hanselman and Hanna Hanselman are all returning golfers that I think could make a big impact for us this season,” Zach Tremmel, the head golf coach for Sigourney said.

Adalynne Tremmel averaged 60 strokes per nine holes and 124 strokes in 18-hole rounds to lead the group of returning golfers for the Savages this spring. The experience that she gained from last spring should make a big impact for her as she starts this season.

Keota girls ready to make most of 2025 season

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

KEOTA – It isn't always about the victories, but rather information gained.

For the Keota girls track team this season they are focused on being able to build information from one track meet to the next.

Through the early part of the season the Eagles seem to have been able to gain success through their middle relay lengths. The Eagles have been able to run the 4x200 and 4x400 relay races well.

For most of the spring the girls will continue to work on getting more consistent times in the sprints and middle distance solo races. They will also work on having consistent throws in the shot put and discus events as well.

With a mostly young team the Eagles are focused on gaining as much experience as they can throughout the month of April, before making noise during the conference and district track meets held in the month of May.

Gaining experience a goal for Eagles this spring

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

KEOTA – Youth, they say, may be wasted on the young.

The youth movement that the Keota boys track team is facing though could help them prepare for future seasons.

Keota's boys track team isn't one that has a lot of experience this year, but that isn't going to hold them back as they navigate throughout the season. The Eagles are going to run just as hard as they can throughout the season. Along the way the young Eagles team will be able to build up some ways on how to better prepare for the next track meet.

Getting points and climbing in the points standings at track meets is always a goal, but gaining valuable experience in how to navigate throughout the track season. The wins that the Eagles are sure to pick up will only be an added bonus to the experience that they are sure to gain.

fending conference champs and also won sectionals before losing at the district meet."

Those types of numbers should certainly boost the confidence of the Savages as they hit the links in 2025.

Last year Isaac Bruns and Solon Yates emerged as two of the stars for the Savages. Yates recorded a nine-hole low score of 36. Bruns was able to record a nine-hole low score of 39, helping the Savages keep the scores low.

As a team the Savages averaged 166 strokes on nine holes, which helped lift them to their eventual conference championship.

With five of their six golfers returning depth will be a big benefit of the Savages as they work their way through the spring season.

The one thing coach Tremmel wants the team to work on is moving on from bad holes.

"We just have to keep from letting one blow up hole carry over to the rest of the round," Tremmel said.

Panthers ready to show contender status in 2025

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

PACKWOOD – At times the roster seems almost too good to be true.

However, the reality is that this year's Pekin girls track team is ready to add to the long history of stellar track teams that Pekin has produced throughout the years.

For starters the Panthers have one of the best 1A throwers on their team. As a sophomore Anna Hadley was able to finish in the top two of both her events at the State meet. So far her junior season is proving to be just as dominant. As the season has gone on, Hadley has only seemed to get better, which is bad news for the rest of the state.

Hadley is far from the only dominant member of the Pekin track team this year though.

In the hurdles events Pekin has two dominant hurdlers that have made noise throughout the early part of the season.

Sophomores Reece Brisby and Paislee Coleman have usually finished within the top two of the races they run in. Both hurdlers have been able to turn in consistent times under 18 seconds, among some of the best in class 1A.

Chloe Glosser, who finished in the top-3 at the State cross country meet in November, has only seemed to have gotten faster. Glosser has been a consistent runner near the top of the standings in both the 1,500 and 3,000 meter runs. She has also been an almost unbeatable anchor leg on the distance medley, 4x800 and 4x400 runs.

Sophomore Addison Smith has also proved to be a constant threat up front in the sprinting events. She has a best time under 13.5 in the 100 meter dash. In the 200 meter dash she has been able to turn in a time under 28.5 seconds.

As if that all wasn't enough the Panthers have a consistent threat in the high jump event. Senior Kayse Miller has focused most of the offseason on getting her goal to leap over 5-feet-4-inches this season.

Only time will tell how far up the State standings the Pekin girls will climb this spring.

Girls Roster: Zoey Atkinson, Reece Brisby, Paislee Coleman, Callie Deutschle, Breanna Drish, Bree Earnest, Renae Eubanks, Rylee Frye, Carlie Gambell, Ryleigh Garr, Ava Gillam, Chloe Glosser, Harper Guise, Abby Guise, Anna Hadley, Kayse Miller, Taylor Moore, Ava Owens, Maddy Petrehn, Grace Phillips, Brinley Phillips, Emerson Porter and Addison Smith.

Weapons are plentiful on deep Pekin track team

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

PACKWOOD – There is no such thing as too many weapons.

If anything the Pekin boys track team is set out to prove that this spring as they bring a myriad of weapons into almost every single meet that they will be competing in.

The Panthers are deep on speed and can also show off their field events if they need to.

In the sprinting events the Panthers can rely on the legs of Brody Sobaski or Jaxon Mefford to carry them in the 100 or 200 meter dashes.

Junior Cole Millikin has been a constant threat in the 1,600 meter run adding another weapon in the distance races for the Panthers throughout the spring.

In the long jump the Adam brothers of Will and Henry have been able to turn in good efforts with Will Adam continually able to land in the top-10 distances at most of the meets he has participated in.

Caden Bender and Alton Williams have both taken turns throwing for long distances in the shot put and discus events adding yet another weapon for the Panthers.

The hurdle events have featured some of the strongest weapons for the Panthers. As Kasey Davis has regularly been able to turn in fast times. The 4x110 shuttle hurdle relay team has featured some different members, but it has remained consistently fast.

The bottom line is that the Panthers will enter most of the meets they compete in this spring ready to climb the overall standings. The ultimate goal is, of course, being able to bring a large contingent of Panther runners to the Blue Oval at Drake Stadium during the State track meet.

Boys Roster: Will Adam, Henry Adam, Caden Bender, Jonah Breon, Alijah Brock, Robert Brown, Conor Cloyd, Landon Crow, Mason Dahlstrom, William Daniels, Kasey Davis, Jonathan Delaney, Henry Eubanks, Lane Fariss, Gabe Gentry, Nolan Glick, Liam Guise, Ryann Hammes, Jonathan Jacobs, Jaxon Mefford, Hayden Miller, Cole Millikin, Aiden Porter, Brantyn Sieren, Cael Silvers, Cody Silvers, Riley Smith, Dylan Sobaski, Brody Sobaski and Alton Williams.

averaging 61.5 strokes per nine hole courses this year.

Brynn Conrad is another sophomore for the Eagles. She has a nine-hole low score of 63 on the spring already. She is averaging 67.67 shots per nine-hole rounds on average.

Kaylee Kindred is another sophomore for the Eagles. She already has a nine-hole low score of 75 this year. On nine-hole courses she is averaging 77 shots to complete the course.

As the spring continues the Eagles are expected to continue to make improvements.

Bears relying on Heyne's leadership for season

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

NORTH ENGLISH – Just about everyone knows him for his ability to run.

This spring senior Gage Heyne is proving that he is also able to golf as well as he can run. The senior has already proven to be a team leader on both the nine and 18-hole courses for the Bears this season.

Heyne has played in two nine-hole rounds where he has been able to record a round low score of a 39. His average on nine holes is a 40. That leads the Bears.

Heyne also leads the Bears in the 18 hole rounds. In his one 18-hole round that he has had so far this year Heyne finished with a team-best of 77.

Sophomore Tyler Lortz is also proving to be a strong golfer on both the nine and 18-hole courses. Lortz has been able to shoot a nine-hole low round of a 40 so far this season. In three nine hole courses he is averaging 42 shots per nine holes.

The Bears will build their season around both Heyne and Lortz as they prepare for the district and possibly sectional tournament.

Boys Roster: Brodey Flander, Gage Heyne, Tyler Lortz, Teagan Mast, Owen Mather, Cyrus Morrison, Jackson Overy, Garin Schaffner.

Bears ready to leave their mark at Southeast Iowa track meets

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review

NORTH ENGLISH – They're fast, they can run a long distance and they have the strength to throw great distances.

On the surface there doesn't seem to be much that the English Valleys girls track team won't be able to excel in this year.

The sprints events are expected to be largely dominated by sophomore Ava Gehrking. Last year as a freshman, Gehrking was able to turn heads with her speed. Throughout the early part of the season Gehrking has continued to turn heads as she has turned in some of the fastest times in class 1A in the 100 and 200 meter races already.

The short sprints are the only area that the Bears have a strength. Anna Luers, a freshman, has been able to turn in consistently fast times in the distance runs so far this season. Add in sophomore Addison Achenbach and the Bears have a good shot at being able to have a strong shot at being competitive in most of the single running events that they will take part in this year.

Senior Taylor Mikesell has long established herself as one of the best throwers in the state. She has been able to continue to throw well in both the shot put and discus events. With points coming from Mikesell's long throws the sky seems like the limit for the Bears girls track team this year.

Weather limited the State tournament to just one round and the Eagles were not able to show their complete power.

This year the Eagles are gunning for a return trip to the State tournament.

With the help of senior golfer Billie Kindred, the Eagles could be well on their way to a return trip to the State tournament.

Kindred currently ranks as one of the State's top-12 golfers for a nine hole low score. The senior has been able to shoot a 36 for his low score so far on a 9-hole course. He has shot an 82 on the one 18-hole course he has played on, helping the Eagles gain confidence as they work their way towards a possible return trip to the State tournament.

Sophomore Brennan McGuire was able to produce a nine hole low score of 38 so far this year. Porter Cave has been able to shoot a 40 in a nine hole course.

All these are stacking up for a potential return trip to the State tournament.

this spring.

With two seniors on the Bears this year the English Valleys girls golf team is relying on their leadership, as well as the excellent play of a pair of juniors to lead them this year.

Seniors Taylor Mikesell and Nicole Murphy have been able to lead the Bears at several meets this season.

Mikesell has played in two nine-hole rounds this season. She has a best score of 59 already.

She is also averaging 59 on nine-hole courses early on this season.

Murphy, has played in four nine-hole courses this year and she also has a best score of 59. On average she is averaging 62.25 strokes to finish a nine hole course.

Kaylee Frazier, a junior, is the current team leader in nine-hole low scores as well as an average.

Frazier has been able to shoot a nine-hole low score of 53 so far. She is averaging about 55 strokes per nine-hole rounds.

Sarah Frederick is another junior for the Bears. She has shot a nine-hole score of 54 so far this season. She is averaging 61.75 strokes per nine-hole rounds.

Those four golfers are expected to lead the Bears throughout the 2025 golf season.

Bears expected to excel in distances this spring

By Mark Schafer | The News-Review
NORTH ENGLISH – He is known throughout the state as one of the premier distance runners. This spring the rest of the Bears plan to show that he is more than a one person show.
No discussion of the English Valleys boys track and field team would be complete without talking about senior Gage Heyne.
The senior, who finished in the top-5 in the cross country meet this year, is already showing his strength in the distance events.
Heyne, to no one’s surprise, is the current class 1A leader for the fastest time in the 1,600 meter run. Currently the senior has a best time of 4:25.64 running the mile. That is more than four seconds better than the next best runner in the same event.
Heyne currently ranks third in the fastest time in class 1A competition for the 3,200 meter run. His time of 9:49.63 is a little more than six seconds off the current state leader (in class 1A).

Additionally, Heyne also has the third best time among class 1A competition in the 800 meter run. His best time is 1:55.24.
Sophomore Everett Bender is proving himself to be an excellent athlete in several events as well. Bender currently leads his team in the 110 hurdles with a best effort of 18.23.
The sophomore jumper has also been able to lead the team with a high jump that has cleared 5-feet-8-inches.
Kane Axmear, another sophomore for the Bears is proving himself to be a good thrower. He has a best shot put throw of 39-feet-9.75-inches already this year. In the discus he has been able to throw it 106-feet-1-inch.
The Bears also have a few good relays. The team of Deshon Anderson, Ben Coffman, Braydon Anderson and Heyne have a best time of 1:38.39 in the sprint medley, which is just four seconds off the fastest time in the state in terms of class 1A competition.
